ABOUT THE DOMAINE

In 2012, building on their 35-year history of making globally acclaimed Cabernet Sauvignons, Duckhorn Wines came to Washington State's Red Mountain to make their debut Canvasback Red Mountain Cabernet Sauvignon. Though Red Mountain is one of the smallest appellations in Washington State, it is one of the most widely renowned. With ideal soils, a perfect sloping southwestern exposure, and a dry desert climate, Red Mountain has done more than just establish itself as perhaps the finest region in Washington for growing Cabernet Sauvignon; it is rapidly earning a reputation for producing some of the most compelling and distinctive Cabernet Sauvignons in the New World. Today, Canvasback is guided by winemaker Joseph Czarny, guiding the evolution of an acclaimed portfolio

TASTING NOTES

This lush and alluring Cabernet Sauvignon begins with aromas of ripe strawberry, grenadine and Bing cherry that leap from the glass, followed by notes of sarsaparilla, root spices, black liquorice cinnamon and star anise. On the palate it is both luxurious and energetic, with plush tannins and ripe red berry flavours balanced by enlivening energy and sophisticated hints of cigar wrapper, granitic minerality and sweet baking spices.
